

A report from goldsalvation.com

Surviving the global financial mess

Welcome to this free report.

The information below is to inform you of the basics of the existing issues with finance today and offer some suggested solutions to help protect you against losing what you already have. It is most certainly at risk!

Since the world has been saturated with the U.S. dollar, this report will be a “refresher” for some, raw information for others and will serve as the focus of Goldsalvation’s goal...to help as many as possible get on the winning side of the impending wealth shift.

Please feel free to post any comments/questions on my blog:

Alan Greenspan
Chairman, Federal Reserve 1987 - 2006

"In the absence of the gold standard, there is no way to protect savings from confiscation of wealth. There is no safe store of value.

Deficit spending is simply a scheme for confiscation of wealth."

Every currency in the world is now 'fake' because none of it is backed by anything of value.¹

In 1971

President Nixon announced that the US government will remove the gold standard from the US Dollar.¹

Shortly After

governments all around the globe followed and simply printed ink on paper in order for the population to continue trading.^{1,2}

This is called fiat currencies²

The Mass

printing fiat currencies are the reason for rising prices causing inflation.²

History Shows

that on average fiat currency has a life expectancy of approximately 27 years.³

Looking at history, one discovers that thousands upon thousands of fiat currencies failed - no exceptions.³

A 100% failure rate

The Current Global Monetary System Will Collapse Very Soon

Looking back through history, the most countries have an entirely new monetary system every

30 to 40 Years³

The world has experienced the collapse of three different global monetary systems in the past 100-years:

1914, 1939 & 1971⁴

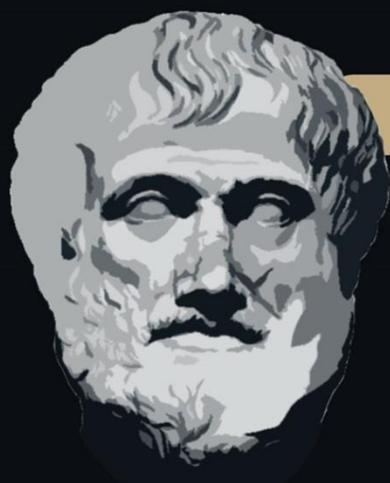

The current global monetary system

- the US Dollar -

is now not backed by gold AT ALL.¹

Gold The Only Real Money, It Is a Store of Value

Gold has and will always maintain its purchasing power through every economic collapse.⁵

Greek philosopher, Aristotle (384 BC - 322 BC) said gold is money because:

-  It's durable.
Gold handles wear and tear extremely well, therefore preserves value.
-  It's portable.
Gold is very dense and holds a high amount of value relative to its size and weight.
-  It's fungible.
Gold is freely exchangeable or replaceable, in whole or in part, for another of like nature or kind.
-  It has store of value.
Over time gold has shown not to lose its purchasing power.¹⁰

No Other

commodity has the same characteristics.¹⁰

An Ounce

of gold has more than quadrupled in the last 10 years against the US Dollar.⁹

The aging US dollar system represents more than half of the value of all the world's currency.⁵

Central bankers will try to keep the fiat game going. However, when everything they try, fails, they'll once again swing back to gold and silver.⁵

Time and again, throughout history, gold has been re-valued to account for all the excess currency in circulation.⁶

Today, to account for all the U.S. dollars printed by the Federal Reserve, gold would have to be re-valued at $15,000 per ounce.⁶

However, the price of gold and silver prices is being manipulated by institutions in order to prevent a global financial crisis.⁷

This manipulation gives people the opportunity to acquire gold at artificially suppressed prices.⁷

History has proven that, eventually, all gold and silver manipulation fails.⁸

GOLD

is the only money which has never failed in the 5,000 year history of its use by humans.¹⁰

can't be duplicated (i.e. printed)¹⁰

has outperformed the Dow Jones in the last 7 years.⁵

The above images are to illustrate why everything is so expensive now and how gold is a store of value that is never lost, unlike paper dollars. Silver is now a contender as well. This was not known when these images were created. Many experts believe that silver may outperform gold in the coming months. As such places to obtain silver are incorporated into this report.

The coming financial crunch

The decline in the value of the dollar began in 1913, with the creation of the Federal Reserve and the I.R.S., as illustrated below:

On June 05, 1933, Franklin D. Roosevelt cut ties with gold, so the government could pump paper money into the economy to lower interest rates. This action made it much easier for businesses and individuals to borrow, which was instrumental in stimulating the economy. Many claim that this action was responsible for bringing the U.S. out of the depression. Looking back on this action it is clear that this action was appropriate for the issue of the day. But not today!

Foreign governments were still allowed to exchange dollars for gold during that time, up until 1971.

Unfortunately, Richard Nixon completely severed ties with gold in August of 1971, as (we were told) a temporary measure to control inflation. However, all it did was to create a fiat currency* that allowed the Federal Reserve to “print” more money AND increase inflation. Many treasuries and other large expenditures around the world were made by the U.S. government at the taxpayer’s expense (paid back w/interest to the Federal Reserve via the IRS). Most of this “money” is in computer databases today.

Only 3% of currency is in circulation as physical “money,” the rest is in computer databases, as it is too expensive to physically print all of it today and does not suit those wishing to benefit from this onslaught of worldwide fraud.

This “paper” money is soon to become useless. This will happen because there are no more assets to borrow against. No more roads to kick the can down. The enormous debt that has been created by the above-mentioned practices cannot be satisfied. There just isn’t enough real money to do that.

When (not if) this happens, the world will experience a very large financial downturn and will, as has been done in the past, turn to precious metals (especially gold) as currency.

Several decades’ worth of interest rate history, as well as other factors, have shown the paper dollar’s devaluation. It is quite plausible that it will soon become worthless. Since all paper currencies around the globe are in a similar position, this will not be a local or regional downturn, but rather a global one.

Most people have been stuck in the present system since 1971. This means that the majority of Americans have most of their worth tied to “paper” money (i.e., IRA, 401K, savings account, CD’s, etc.), making the risk of a social as well as an economic collapse quite high.

The crunch is already here, crushing us slowly. It’s like a wave beginning in the middle of the ocean. It is known, but it hasn’t reached where it will do damage...yet.

*A “fiat” currency is printed “paper” money with no backing by a store of value, either technical or traditional (i.e., gold, silver, etc.). Without this backing, this paper money is only of value to those that manipulate the markets they do business in, both domestically and globally. To the majority, it has no value short of using it as money in the manipulated markets of today, which trickles down to everyday expenditures.

Survival of the action takers

We cannot stop the coming onslaught, but there are some very solid ways to take action to preserve what you have – even gain more as well. You need to take action while “paper” has some purchasing power left! Trade it for a store of value. Once you get some...

You must also keep it safe.

Trading paper dollars for REAL money (i.e., gold, silver, platinum, etc.) is the most secure way of dealing with the devaluation of the paper dollar and economic downturns. Please be advised that in spite of what we may be told to believe, gold and silver are REAL money. Their current prices are only a reflection of the worth of the paper dollar, which is being manipulated as well as the global markets, as mentioned above. So it pays to get as much as possible before its price gets significantly higher. The weaker the dollar becomes the higher the price, by rule of thumb. The same is true of silver, if that is your preference. Platinum is not as universal.

Because of market, assets and precious metals manipulation this “rule of thumb” can be made to look like no rule at all.

Here are some proven companies that can (safely) help with financial issues. I am certain they will agree, at least in part, with the information in this report. I do not do business with all of these, but I am well aware of their track records.

There are as of late, many companies (including insurance companies) that are offering to help with IRAs, 401Ks, and other retirement vehicles, by backing them with gold. This one is one of the best:

<https://www.regalassets.com/>

If you are an entrepreneur at heart, this one based in Germany is also a GREAT business opportunity. Free to register if you wish:

<https://www.karatbars.com/>

One of the best ways to protect your wealth is to trade your devaluing “paper” wealth for REAL money (gold) and get a prepaid MasterCard from “BitGold” to load it on. Your dough is never out of your sight (or your pocket), and you can watch the price of the precious metal grow, right on their home page (many including myself, use this company as one of the “eggs” in our baskets). They have referral and affiliate programs to benefit you.

If you have an investor mindset, these folks are great! They have silver and platinum as well as many services for you to peruse. They also have a referral program and good prices, too!

There will be more options available soon and I will inform you of them once I have finished checking their legitimacy and customer reviews. Meanwhile, you can get more information on www.goldsalvation.com, or my personal blog:

Real Estate

Though I know many involved in this business and have had some dealings myself, I would stay clear of this investment for now. If you are truly interested in this commodity, I recommend that you wait until the “bubble” bursts and you can buy it for pennies on the dollar. It WILL happen. The 2008 issue with this was NEVER fixed, so this time around, the smart ones will get GREAT deals.

But What About ME (those living on the edge)?!

Did you think I forgot about you? NO CHANCE! I know that you may be one of those that have no means to do any of the above. There are many ways to acquire what you need, so here is an idea for you. If you are one of the more than 65% (and growing) of people around the world that shop online, here are a few places to get something back when you shop...then use all or some of what you get back to help you get protected:

This is a HUGE European based company, now in the U.S. as well. They offer the most vendors and cash back I have seen. I use it myself, so I know it works! They advertise low cashback percentages compared to what you can get. Check it out here:

Here are a couple more excellent websites.

Whatever you choose to do (and we can chat about that, if you like), please remember Goldsalvation's goal. The more people that come out on the winning side of the equation, the fewer there will be wreaking havoc just to feed their families...and fewer casualties.

This has happened many times in the past...but never on this scale.

Remember...there were more millionaires created during the Great Depression of the 1930s than at any other time in American history.

There are some courses on investing and finance (among many other subjects) that I think will help you, also. You can look them over to see if you would be interested. They are inexpensive but VERY informative. These will be, along with other items of interest, be listed on www.goldsalvation.com/-solutions- in the near future.
